

King's

University

Handwritten Arabic text with marginalia, including a large heading: كتاب علاج السعال (Book of treating cough). The text discusses various types of coughs and their treatments, mentioning ingredients like honey, ginger, and other herbs. The right side of the page contains extensive marginal notes.