

Handwritten Arabic text on the left page, featuring dense script and marginalia. The text is written in a cursive style and includes various annotations and corrections. The main body of text is surrounded by extensive marginal notes, some written in a smaller hand and others in a more decorative script. The page is filled with ink, with some areas appearing slightly faded or overwritten.

Handwritten Arabic text on the right page, featuring dense script and marginalia. The text is written in a cursive style and includes various annotations and corrections. The main body of text is surrounded by extensive marginal notes, some written in a smaller hand and others in a more decorative script. The page is filled with ink, with some areas appearing slightly faded or overwritten.