

Handwritten notes in the top right corner of the right page, including the name 'ابن سينا' and other illegible text.

Main text on the right page, written in Arabic script. It discusses medical concepts related to the liver and its functions, mentioning terms like 'الكبد' (liver) and 'الدم' (blood).

Extensive handwritten marginal notes on the right side of the right page, providing additional commentary or examples related to the main text.

Main text on the left page, continuing the medical discourse from the right page. It details the relationship between the liver, blood, and other organs, using classical Arabic terminology.

Handwritten marginal notes on the left side of the left page, including a small diagram or list of items.

Additional handwritten notes at the bottom left of the left page, possibly a summary or a specific reference.