

Handwritten Arabic text in two columns, likely a manuscript or commentary. The text is dense and includes various scriptural references and theological discussions. Marginal notes are present on both pages.