

Handwritten text in Persian script, likely a medical or religious manuscript, covering both pages of an open book. The text is arranged in columns and includes various lines of script, some of which are partially obscured by a large watermark.

Copyright © King Saad University