

Handwritten text in two columns on each page, written in a cursive script. The text is dense and covers most of the page area. The script is characteristic of historical Persian or Arabic manuscripts. The pages are aged and show some wear and tear, particularly at the edges and in the gutter.

Copyrighted by University