

Handwritten text in Arabic script, likely a manuscript or treatise, covering both pages of the open book. The text is dense and appears to be a continuous flow of writing, possibly a commentary or a specific section of a larger work. The script is cursive and fills most of the page area.

Copyrighted by University