

Handwritten Arabic text in two columns on aged, stained paper. The script is dense and cursive, with many marginal notes and corrections. The text appears to be a scholarly or philosophical treatise, possibly related to grammar or logic, given the use of terms like 'المفعول' (the object) and 'الفاعل' (the subject).