

Handwritten manuscript in Arabic script, featuring dense text and marginalia. The text is written in a cursive style, with some words highlighted in red ink. The manuscript is divided into two columns, with the right column containing the main text and the left column containing marginalia. The text appears to be a historical or philosophical treatise, discussing various topics such as the nature of the soul, the human body, and the relationship between the two. The handwriting is clear and legible, with some variations in ink color and line spacing. The paper is aged and slightly discolored, with some visible wear and tear. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved but old document.