

Handwritten Arabic text in a dense script, likely a historical or religious document. The text is written in a cursive style with many marginalia. Key sections are highlighted with red ink. The main text on the right page includes the following sections:

- لخاصة: A section starting with 'لخاصة' (for special).
- المراد: A section starting with 'المراد' (the intended).
- اجموس: A section starting with 'اجموس' (Ajmos).
- حاربه: A section starting with 'حاربه' (Harbah).
- ابوسعيد: A section starting with 'ابوسعيد' (Abu Sa'id).
- عاشه: A section starting with 'عاشه' (Ashah).
- ابوهريره: A section starting with 'ابوهريره' (Abu Hurairah).
- الموت: A section starting with 'الموت' (death).

The left page contains similar text, also in a cursive script, with some sections starting with 'ابوهريره' (Abu Hurairah). The text is highly detailed and appears to be a collection of reports or narrations.

