

Handwritten Arabic text in Maghrebi script, consisting of a main text and several marginalia. The main text is densely packed and covers most of the page area. Marginalia are written in smaller hands, some in the left margin and others in the right margin, providing commentary or additional information. The script is characteristic of the Maghrebi region, used in North Africa and the Iberian Peninsula during the medieval period.