

Handwritten text in Arabic script, including a large heading at the top and several columns of text below. The text is dense and appears to be a historical or administrative document.

Handwritten text in Arabic script, continuing from the left page. It features several columns of text with some red ink markings and a large heading at the top right.