

Handwritten Arabic text on the left page, featuring dense script and several red ink annotations. The text is arranged in vertical columns, with some lines starting with large decorative initials. A large, faint watermark is visible across the center of the page.

Handwritten Arabic text on the right page, continuing the dense script and red ink annotations from the left page. The layout is similar, with vertical columns and decorative elements. A large, faint watermark is also present here.