

Handwritten Arabic text in a dense, cursive script, likely a manuscript or treatise. The text is arranged in columns and includes various annotations and marginalia. The script is highly stylized and characteristic of classical Arabic calligraphy. The manuscript is written on aged, yellowed paper with some visible wear and tear.