

This image shows a long, narrow strip of ancient papyrus, likely a fragment from a larger document. The papyrus is light brown and shows signs of age, including some staining and wear. It is covered in handwritten text in Arabic script, written in dark ink. The text is arranged in horizontal lines, though some lines are slightly curved due to the shape of the strip. The script is a cursive style, typical of medieval Arabic manuscripts. The fragment appears to be a continuation of a text, with some words and phrases visible at the edges. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved but aged piece of historical writing.

[illegible]